

A French Journey

Newsletter

Your French Journey!

This week, we offer you a little journey in a singular Paris, the painted one!
As the city of lights always inspired the painters, they gave birth to magnificent views of it.
Let's compare their visions to the actual city and we will see the changes that modernity brought in.

Bon voyage!

Les toits de Paris by Van Gogh after he settled with his brother 54, rue Lepic in Montmartre, click on it to see the other pictures!

Quoi de Neuf???

Modernity is always good to ease our life. Since apps are the new trends, a lot of them are there to help you to learn French or to ease your travel.
Here is our little selection:

WORD LENS

It is not perfect, yet. But wow, the technology is impressive and might be useful for your next trip. You just scan everything written (signs, menus, tickets...) and every word switch into the language you want instantaneously on your screen.

The plus?

It works without connection and it's free!

DUO LINGO

With this game, you can improve your grammar and vocabulary skills but also your pronunciation! You can go through a lot of challenges or pick the topic you want to practice.

The plus?

It is really fun and the more you learn, the more you can access.

French Connections

Join us to celebrate the end of the term!
Saturday 14th June we are planning a dinner at Ficelle (Parkdale).

Starts at 7PM

The restaurant is BYO

$65 including a 3 courses menu and a kir.

Please confirm by the 9th June.

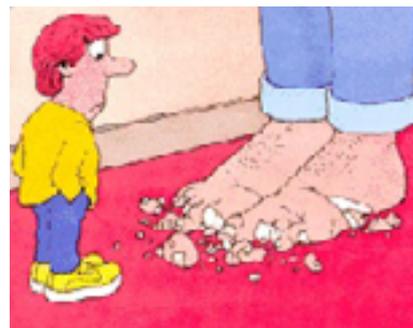

Click the picture to see the menu!

French-Matic

Discover a new French idiom or proverb every month

CASSER LES PIEDS

"Mon papa m'a dit que je lui cassais les pieds"

Literaly: My father told me that I was breaking his feet

Meaning: My father told that I was getting on his nerves